ISSUE 9 Thursday 10th November

“When America sneezes the world catches a cold”

(attributed to Harold Callender, 1952)

Dear Parents,

On Tuesday 8th November I addressed the older primary pupils during lunchtime and we did a straw poll of their preferences in the US Presidential elections. I am pleased to report that the pupils seemed very informed and knowledgeable about both major candidates. Their voting method was by a show of hands which is not the most approved method of conducting elections and they were overwhelmingly in favour of Hillary Clinton, the unsuccessful candidate as it turned out. However, they were in line with the young voters in the US (18-25) where a majority favoured the Democratic candidate.

The interest in the US presidential election around the world is unprecedented and this reflects America's leadership role and its importance. Political analysts from around the world flock to the United States every four years to observe how modern elections are fought and certainly the result and the campaigns will result in much debate and reflection.

What does it mean to international school communities? It awaits to be seen but the election of a president whose campaign rhetoric promoted a protectionist and isolationist redirection, does not bode well for the ideals and philosophy of international education. The purpose of international education is to celebrate diversity, to see global mobility as a way to deepen our understanding of the world and to proclaim that as global citizens we are deeply and profoundly inter-connected for the use of the world's resources, to reduce conflict and protect the environment. Since World War II the United States has underpinned this increased mobility, this inter-connectedness and the spread of liberal democracy. We have taken those values for granted and now we see how fragile those values seem to be.

However, this part of the world has faced greater challenges than the change of a US president and as we celebrate the 98th anniversary of the founding of Poland's second Republic on Independence Day tomorrow we reflect that Poland was wiped off the map of Europe for over a century and claimed nation status once more in the aftermath of the end of World War One. Poland has known the struggle for its existence and we wish our Polish community all the very best on this special public holiday.

4. Parent Teacher Conference

Dear Parents,

I would like to kindly inform you about the upcoming Parent Teacher Conference on 15th and 16th November (3.45pm till 6.00 pm). Please note, that all after school extra curricular activities are cancelled on these two days, including sport activities.

The method we have always used at school is to book 15-minute appointments between parents and individual teachers in Primary and 10-minute appointments in Secondary. This avoids too many queues forming and generally helps keep the evening more organised.

Best regards,
Katarzyna Kluka

News from Head of Primary

Welcome back after the break! Did you have a good time off school? I hope so! Did you have a good read too?

It turns out that even if children read, some of them do it because they have to, not because they want to. Despite all the effort poured into enticing kids to read—the prizes, the posters, the contests—many students say they don't enjoy it. Research shows that reading for pleasure drops off drastically for kids after age eight. Only 51 percent of kids surveyed said reading is something they like or love to do, a nine percent drop from when the survey was first conducted in 2010.

University of Virginia professor Michael McKenna, compared PISA literacy achievement scores to the Enjoyment of Reading Index, in which 15-year-olds answer 11 questions about their reading enjoyment, and found two very different lists. Those who read the "best" — Shanghai-China, Korea, Finland, and Hong Kong — didn't necessarily like it the most. Who loves to read most? Albania, Turkey, Shanghai-China, and Kazakhstan.* Surprising, isn't it? Or are we just being stereotypical?

Here are some tips to help children develop fondness for books:

Make sure kids have access to books. Drop by the library often. If it's affordable, leave books lying around the house, in the car, even in the bathroom.

Don't control kids' reading. The temptation to "put the hammer down" for a page count may only result in a reaction and pushback. Comic books, graphic novels, and books below reading level all count.

Get kids involved in a peer network of readers. For example, teen author John Green has created an incredible network of readers and fans that connect online.

Offer reading material that draws on something they're already interested in. If there's a movie they already love, get the novelization of the movie, or a book about backstage gossip on set.

Don't forget that as the parent, you are the cheerleader, not the literature judge. Don't worry if it's not Shakespeare, the point is to show kids that "interesting things are found when you read print."

Phew! If you managed to read until this point, three cheers for you! You definitely deserve a treat – and what else would that be if not Stars of the Week? Here they are, proudly shining:

Foundation Bees and Bears - Nao
Year 1 Rabbits - Junwoo

News from Head of Secondary

After a week without lessons, students seemed refreshed and energetic to begin the second-half of the term. Almost every student in secondary took a test or two this week and are revising for other tests that will occur next week.

The science lab has seen quite a bit of action lately and I am sure students enjoyed the opportunity to have some hands-on experience with what they are learning in the classroom. Year 8 Science students visited the lab to find out more about heat loss through various materials that make up coffee mugs, glass and plastic cups, and other insulated containers.

The Year 9 Science class is investigating speed and force in their physics unit. They also visited the lab recently to measure the amount of force needed pull an object across the table surface compared to pulling the same object while on wood rollers. The aim was to see the benefits of using rollers to move heavy objects in much the same way the stones at Stonehenge are believed to have been moved.

Enjoy your weekend,

Joe Peck
Head of Secondary

News from Polish School

„W Polsce czyli nigdzie.”

Takimi słowami określił miejsce akcji swojej groteskowej sztuki Alfred Jarry, piętnastoletni licealista francuski, który później został okrzyknięty wielkim artystą, prekursorem teatru absurdu.

„W Polsce czyli nigdzie”, to absurd! Oburzymy się dzisiaj my, Polacy urodzeni i żyjący w wolnym kraju. Nie powinniśmy się jednak złościć na młodego człowieka, który tworzył pod koniec XIX wieku czyli w czasie, kiedy Polski na mapach świata nie było. Ale czy naprawdę nie istniała?

Ojczyzna to nie to samo, co państwo. Byliśmy w niewoli i nie było państwa, ale była Ojczyzna – język, historia, tradycje, dziedzictwo kulturowe, to wszystko co stanowi o naszej odrębności, o naszej godności. O tym uczyły się w tym tygodniu nasze dzieci. Te młodsze poznawały polskie symbole, kolorowały godło i flagę, starsze rozmawiały o rozbiorach i walkach narodowowyzwoleńczych. Wszystkie, na swój sposób dowiedziały się dlaczego 11 listopada obchodzimy Narodowe Święto Niepodległości.

Miłego świętowania!

SPOTLIGHT ON YEAR 7

The transition from Primary into Secondary is not always easy but the current Year 7 group have managed to survive without getting lost, stressed or trampled by the 'big kids'.

The class has been working really well and the friendships from Year 6 appear to have been strengthened with the addition of a few new classmates at the start of the year. All 13 of them have something unique and interesting to offer. We have been exploring the value of their differences this week though a 'media study' that is connected to the Year 7 English Unit – War Poetry. Each of the students have been collecting different articles on current war events and then translating them into English and commenting on the different points of view of each country.

Year 7 students were part of the very successful school Unihoc Sports Team, where the school placed in 2nd Place in Wroclaw and then went on to compete in the regional championships.

In the classroom across the hall the sound of Year 7 working their way through the Middle-Ages in their History lessons is always music to my ears. Mr Alex smiled as he spoke of the Year 7 group and the positive way that they approach his subject – he finished with... “They are going to be stuck in the Middle-Ages for a long time” (a History teacher joke!).

Overall, the group has managed to keep on top of the increased workload and I am sure that they enjoy preparing for the many fun tests that their teachers have thoughtfully prepared for them 😊
